Dates: 1945-2019

Extent: 51 boxes (17 metres)

Physical storage: Downsview Offsite Storage.

Biographical Description:

Howard Engel was born in 1931 to Jack and Lollie (Greisman) Engel. He grew up in St. Catharines, Ontario where his father owned a women's clothing store. He attended high school at St. Catharines Collegiate, before attending McMaster University in Hamilton and receiving a teaching degree from the Ontario College of Education. After teaching for one year at Sault Ste Marie, he moved to Paris, where he worked as a writer and reporter for the CBC, including an in-depth piece on Cyprus where he spent several months in 1963. He married Marian (Passmore) Engel (1933-1985) in 1962, and the couple had twins, Charlotte and William in 1965. Back in Canada, he became the producer of CBC radio shows, including Sunday Supplement, The Arts in Review and Anthology. In addition to his producing duties, he also wrote several radio adaptations and episodes, including episodes on true crime and mysteries. He separated from Marian Engel in 1974, and married Janet Hamilton (1952-1998) in 1978, with whom he would have one son, Jacob (1989-). Engel began his career as a writer with poetry and short stories, before publishing his first novel, The Suicide Murders (1980), featuring private detective, Benny Cooperman, who solved crimes in the fictional town of Grantham, based on Engel's own hometown, St. Catharines. Engel would go on to publish fourteen books in his best-selling Cooperman series, with the books being published internationally in translation. In addition to Benny Cooperman, Engel wrote Mr. Doyle and Dr. Bell (1997) featuring the fictionalized life of the young Arthur Conan Doyle, and two novels featuring Canadian journalist, Mike Ward, who solves crimes while on location in Paris, London and Hollywood. While best known for his mystery writing, Engel also penned several non-fiction novels including Lord High Executioner (1996) and Crimes of Passion: An Unblinking Look at Murderous Love (2001). Engel was involved in several Crime Writers Associations, particularly the Crime Writers of Canada, which he co-founded in 1986. In 2001, Engel suffered a stroke, which resulted in a diagnosis of alexia sine agraphia – a condition which prevented Engel from being able to understand written words, although he was still able to write. His fictional detective, Benny Cooperman would suffer the same condition in Memory Book (2005), and Engel would later pen a memoir about his stroke in The Man Who Forgot How to Read, which was published with an afterword by the neurologist, Oliver Sacks (1933-2015). Engel was a well-sought public speaker giving talks on his writing, mysteries and Benny Cooperman, and he received an honorary doctorate from Brock University in 1994. Engel was appointed as a member of the Order of Canada in 2007. He died on 16 July 2019 at the age of 88.

Scope and Content:

Collection contains personal and professional papers relating to Howard Engel. These papers contain extensive material on the novels, books, screenplays, playscripts and radio episodes of Engel. This notably includes drafts for all fourteen novels in the Benny Cooperman series, many including prolific drafts with holograph and editorial revisions. Also included in the collection are extensive drafts for Engel's final Cooperman novel, Over the River, which was slated to be published in both 2016 and 2018 but was eventually cancelled by the publisher, along with the complete drafts for two unpublished Benny Cooperman novels, and partial drafts and outlines for three additional novels. In addition to his fictional writing, the archives include poetry, articles, reviews, and drafts and proofs for his works of non-fiction. In particular, there are extensive drafts for the memoir of his 2001 stroke, The Man Who Forgot How to Read, the book was originally intended as an autobiography and several earlier drafts exist which detail Engel's childhood, adolescence and adulthood. During the process of recovering from his stroke, Engel became acquainted with Oliver Sacks, who would later pen an article on Engel in The New Yorker and would go-on to write the afterword of Engel's memoir. Their extensive correspondence, along with several drafts of Sacks is also present. In addition to material related to Engel's professional career as a writer, including photographs and press clippings, as well as speeches given over the course of several decades. Engel's career as a journalist, writer and producer at the CBC is well-documented through scripts and research written or produced by Engel, which is further augmented by audio tapes and reels. The personal life of Engel is well-documented through a nearly complete set of diaries dating between 1991 and 2019, with additional diaries dating from the 1940s, 1950s, 1960s and 1980s, as well as photographs, mementos and through correspondence of a personal and professional nature. The collection contains manuscripts written by other writers, often sent to Engel for feedback or as gifts, this includes drafts or proofs from Kildare Dobbs, Mavis Gallant, Eric Wright and Jack Batten.
