

BOULTBEE, (Horatio C.) papers, 1930's to 1967

Horatio Boulton, 1876-1952, a brother of the architect, Arthur Boulton, was trained as an architect, but did not practise. He devoted himself to the study of the English language. While he published very little, he was a considerable influence among a small circle of acquaintances who were interested in writing and the study of poetry.

Horatio Boulton was president of the Toronto Tennis Club, and a member of the Arts and Letters Club. He died in Toronto at the age of 76.

His publications were:

The Oxford Lists and Other Poems. Toronto, Oxford University Press, 1931.

Longer Poems. Toronto, T.H. Best Printing Co., 1953.

The Famous Men of England, and Last Poems. Montreal, 1966.

BOX I

Bishop, Hunter. List of H.C. Boulton's writings.

Boulton, Horatio C. On isolation ... From the Dalhousie Review, Jan., 1944.

On sport ... Typescript.

On critics ... Typescript.

War and the poet. From Saturday Night, Apr. 29, 1944.

The famous men of England. Partial typescript.

The adventures of a king. Incomplete typescript of a novel.

Beauty. Typescript of a poem.

Hints from nature. Typescript of a poem.

Letters to Rupert Mee. 1944.

List of H.C.B.'s writings.

Correspondence relating to the posthumous publication of Boulton's work.