[Collection:] James Mavor Papers

Series Title: Doukhobor Correspondence and Related Materials

GMD: [textual, graphic records]

Dates of creation: 1898-1924

Extent: 75 cm of textual records. -- 24 photographs (8 boxes)

Biographical sketch: In July 1898 Prince Petr Kropotkin, the Russian geographer, author and revolutionary, wrote to Mavor drawing his attention to the plight of the Doukhobors, a Russian peasant religious sect, who were being persecuted by the Russian government for their egalitarian and pacifist views. Kropotkin, who had visited the North-West of Canada the previous year, asked Mavor to investigate the possibility of Doukhobor immigration to Canada. Mavor's efforts on behalf of the sect culminated in the arrival of the first settlers in Saskatchewan early in 1899. Until his death in 1925 Mavor continued to take an interest in the welfare of the Doukhobors and intercede on their behalf with government authorities. Mavor's active involvement is centered on four separate episodes:

- the preliminary negotiations and initial arrival and settlement of the Doukhobors, including the 1902 "pilgrimage" when 2000 Doukhobors temporarily deserted their villages, and Mavor's visits to the settlements in 1899 and 1904 (1898-1904)
- the confiscation by the government of two-thirds of Doukhobor land in Saskatchewan, and the subsequent relocation of some 5000 community Doukhobors, under the leadership of Petr Verigin, to the Kootenay region of British Columbia (1910) and the subsequent attempts of the Doukhobors to claim compensation for their losses (1912-1913)
- the attempt by the federal government to expropriate Doukhobor lands in order to make it available to returning soldiers after World War I (1919)
- the refusal of the Doukhobors to pay income tax, first instituted in 1917 to finance World War I expenditures (1921-1922)

Custodial history: Almost the whole of the original correspondence prior to April 1904 was destroyed by fire while still in the custody of the owner, James Mavor. A note by Mavor at the beginning of scrapbook III records: "The originals of many of the letters in the following list together with a large number of other papers connected with the immigration of the Doukhobors were sent to the binders in April 1904 and unfortunately destroyed in the Great Fire of Toronto which occurred a few days afterwards".

Scope and Contents: The series consists primarily of correspondence concerning Doukhobor affairs, from the initial inquiry by Petr Kropotkin to Mavor in July 1898 to the arrival of 7500 Doukhobors in 1899-1900, and the first years of their settlement in Saskatchewan. Important correspondents include government officials such Clifford Sifton and James A. Smart of the federal Department of the Interior and W.F. McCreary, Commissioner of Immigration in Winnipeg, and Doukhobor spokesmen and leaders such as Leo Tolstoy, Aylmer Maude, Vladimir Chertkov, D. Khilkov and Petr Verigin. Subsequent correspondence is mainly concerned with the period 1906-1907 and 1919 when Doukhobor communities were under threat of expropriation of their lands.

The series also contains printed material, including pamphlets and other articles, on the Doukhobors; Mavor's own notes and reports, including a daybook kept during his trip to Western Canada in 1899; and photographs of Doukhobor settlements in Canada.

Source of supplied title: Title based on contents of series.

Physical description note: Holograph correspondence (some carbon copies) and notes; holograph and typescript copies of correspondence; also includes some printed materials, clippings, and photographs.

Arrangement note: Mavor organized his correspondence chronologically by date received, which means that correspondence from abroad is generally found later in the sequence than local correspondence of the same date. He kept carbon copies of his own outgoing correspondence, and also regularly made typescript copies of letters received. He then pasted the letters, including enclosures and occasionally supporting documentation such as newspaper clippings, into scrapbooks, often with a table of contents indexing the letters by number at the beginning of each volume. The series also includes looseleaf and printed material which was not originally included in scrapbooks, arranged chronologically or thematically. Photographs were removed from the original scrapbooks for conservations reasons, and are boxed separately (box 40).

Language: Some of the material is in Russian.

Availability of other formats: The majority of the correspondence in this series has been microfilmed. [Microfilm duplicate 46]

Restrictions on access note: No restrictions on access.

Finding aid: Index to each volume of the correspondence is available (box 39).

Associated material: An early draft of the Doukhobor chapter in Mavor's memoirs My Windows on the Street of the World is found in the series of that name (file 68 of the Mavor papers).

[Series:] Doukhobor Correspondence and Related Materials

Title: Correspondence on Doukhobor Affairs 1898-1899, Vol. I.

GMD: [textual records]

Dates of creation: July 10, 1898 to February 6, 1899; November 1902

Extent: 4 cm of textual records (11 folders)

Custodial history: The original scrapbook has been disbound by the Library due to conservation requirements. The correspondence has been transferred to folders (box 35A, folders 1-11).

Scope and content: File consists of a scrapbook which Mavor titled "Correspondence on Doukhobor Affairs 1898-1899, Vol. I". The file consists chiefly of 98 numbered letters, in 11 folders. Folders 1-2 consist of two versions of Mavor's index to the correspondence, titled "Catalogue of Correspondence regarding the Immigration of the Doukhobors into Canada from July 1898 to February 1899". One list includes Mavor's manuscript additions and corrections; the other list is a clean copy of the first. Folders 3 through 9 contain the correspondence. Seven of the letters, though they have been assigned a number and are included in Mavor's index and known to have existed, were evidently not transcribed and are therefore missing. Folder 10 contains a typescript entitled: "Notes of conversations with [Paul] Planedin. November 1902. Translated by [Joseph] Dieterichs". Folder 11 contains a portion of the original scrapbook cover.

The correspondence chiefly concerns various financial and other arrangements for the migration of the Doukhobors negotiated with the federal Minister of the Interior, Clifford Sifton, and his deputy minister James Smart, as well as with interested supporters, chiefly Vladimir Chertkov and other members of the Tolstoyan community in Purleigh, Essex, known as the English Committee.

The principal correspondents include Petr Kropotkin, Vladimir Chertkov, William Mulock, Patrick Geddes, Clifford Sifton, Leo Tolstoy, Aylmer Maude, James A. Smart, Samuel Biddle, Frank Pedley, D. Khilkov, Herbert P. Archer.

Physical description note: The correspondence consists of carbon typescript copies (originals destroyed in fire - see custodial history note for Doukhobor series). Some of the correspondence is duplicated in volume 3.

Arrangement note: Correspondence is arranged chronologically, by date received.

Dates of creation: 1 December 1898; 1906; chiefly 14 January 1907 to 3 June 1907

Extent: 5 cm of textual records (20 folders)

Custodial history: The original scrapbook has been disbound by the Library due to conservation requirements. The correspondence has been transferred to folders (box 35A, folders 12-31).

Scope and content: File consists of a scrapbook which Mavor titled "Doukhobor Affairs 1907 - Correspondence and Documents / James Mavor". The file consists chiefly of 73 numbered letters. At the beginning (folders 12-15) is a sequence of unnumbered correspondence, commencing with an official typescript copy on Dept. of the Interior letterhead, of a letter from Aylmer Maude to James A. Smart dated 1 December 1898 (also found as letter 77 in folder 8, vol. I), as well as copies of other correspondence from the Dept. of the Interior containing details of the Doukhobor settlements, mainly dating from 1906. Also found here is a copy of a letter from Chertkov to Mr. Brooks, dated 9 May 1907 and a short note from Clifford Sifton to Mavor dated 3 June 1907. Folders 16 through 30 contain the main sequence of the correspondence, dated 14 January 1907 to 22 May 1907.

[Series:] Doukhobor Correspondence and Related Materials

Title: Correspondence and Papers relating to the Emigration of the Doukhobortsi into Canada 1898- / James Mavor, Toronto, [Vol. III].

GMD: [textual, graphic records]

Dates of creation: 10 July 1898 - 25 March 1905; 1924; chiefly 17 April 1899 - 21 June 1904

Extent: 1 item (184 p., including 1 photograph).

Custodial history: Several original photographs dated 1904 were removed from the scrapbook by the Library, for conservation, and were transferred to the end of the Doukhobor series with the other miscellaneous material (box 40).

Scope and content: File consists of a bound scrapbook which Mavor titled "Correspondence and Papers relating to the Emigration of the Doukhobortsi into Canada 1898- / James Mavor, Toronto". The first part of the volume is a duplicate of 22 of the 98 letters found in scrapbook Volume I (10 July 1898 - 6 February 1899) plus one letter dated 27 August 1898 which did not appear in vol. I. These, like the correspondence in vol. I, are all typescript copies. However, they are not carbon copies of the letters in the vol. I; they have been typed at a different time and some include manuscript notes by Mavor. It is likely that the copies in this scrapbook are the earlier version, as occasionally revisions made by Mavor here in manuscript have been incorporated into the typescript copy found in vol. I.

The correspondence then continues with letters numbered 99 to 128, dated 17 April 1899 - 21 June 1904. At the end is one unnumbered letter from Petr Verigin to Mavor dated 25 March 1905. The scrapbook also includes many contemporary newspaper clippings and other printed documentation, and one original photograph, of Nikolas Zibarov, dated 1902. Laid in to the volume at the back are three letters and 2 newspaper clippings dating from 1924.

The principal correspondents include W.F. McCreary, Herbert P. Archer, Petr Kropotkin, James A. Smart, Aylmer Maude, Joseph Dietrichs, Petr Verigin.

Physical description note: The duplicate correspondence from the first series in vol. I consists of typescripts. In the second series, the letters numbered by Mavor 99-128, the incoming letters are mainly originals, and the outgoing letters are typescripts, many with Mavor's corrections and revisions in manuscript.

Arrangement note: Correspondence and clippings are arranged chronologically, by date received.

Extent: 5 cm. of textual records (14 folders)

Custodial history: The original scrapbook has been disbound by the Library due to conservation requirements. The correspondence has been transferred to folders (box 36A, folders 1-14).
